However, Love was nowhere to be found. Madness searched behind every tree, under each stream on the planet, at the top of every mountain !And just as she was about to give up, s he saw a rosebush and some roses. She grabbed a stick and started moving around the branches. When suddenly, a shout full of pain was heard: the thorns had harmed Love's eyes.

A Tale of Love and Madness - Exploring your mind

In the book Journal of a Solitude, the poet May Sarton once wrote that |Loneliness is the poverty of self; solitude is richness of self.||Poetry's relationship to solitude is paradoxical: while many poets savor the isolation needed to write their best work, the finished product will ideally create connection, or even community.

"The Raven" is a narrative poem by American writer Edgar Allan Poe. First published in January 1845, the poem is often noted for its musicality, stylized language, and supernatural atmosphere. It tells of a talking raven's mysterious visit to a distraught lover, tracing the man's slow descent into madness. The lover, often identified as a student, is lamenting the loss of his love, Lenore.

15 Nov. poems-of-madness: |Eyes of an immigrant, I have seen asylums, mattresses on the floor so close to the ground, I would whisper to myself; I will never be this close to God. Recollections of guards looking for my soul, envying me for my guts, losing weight, losing hope, getting sick but never homesick. For my mother country.

A love poem will not always be long and flowery. Sometimes what you need to say can be very short. In fact it may be the fact that the poem is short that makes it special. Its short length may show that you put the time and effort in to make every word count. You considered carefully every word choice.
