Many of the other poems in Sleeping with the Dictionary employ similar collection and arrangement techniques. Others use the Oulipian "n + 7" technique or are the result of a heavily employed thesaurus on an already existing text. Prose poems coexist with list poems, restricted form with out-of-control funk.

Sleeping with the Dictionary creates an English unmade, an unEnglish made, one that participates in a racially inflected composite culture. The poems similarly unravel and recast narrative: " The way the story goes, a trespassing towheaded pre-teen barged into the rustic country cottage of a nuclear family of anthropomorphic bruins " or " . . . our story unwinds with the curious dynamics of an action flick without a white protagonist. "
